Federal Disaster Assistance Is for Nebraska Renters, Too

LINCOLN, Neb. – Renters in Nebraska counties and tribal areas whose homes and property were damaged by the March severe winter storms, straight-line winds and flooding may be eligible for federal disaster assistance.

There are federal grants that can help pay for temporary housing. These rental grants are for a 30-day period, subject to review until renters' previous homes are again livable or they find another home.

Also, the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) offers low-interest disaster loans to help Nebraska renters repair or replace disaster-damaged personal property, including automobiles. Loan rates as low as 2.063 percent with terms up to 30 years can be made for eligible losses up to $40,000. Eligible losses include damages to personal property in designated counties that are either uninsured or under-insured, and the survivor has not received compensation from other sources.

Both renters and homeowners may also be eligible for Other Needs Assistance (ONA) through FEMA. ONA helps survivors with uninsured or underinsured necessary expenses and serious needs caused by the disaster.

Other Needs Assistance can be used for:

- Disaster-related medical and dental expenses, as well as assistive devices such as wheelchairs, canes, communication boards and related equipment, and prescriptions;
- Replacement or repair of personal property lost or damaged in the disaster, such as room furnishings or appliances, and tools and equipment required by the self-employed for their jobs;
- A primary vehicle, an approved second vehicle or a modified vehicle damaged by the disaster; and
- Disaster-related funeral and burial expenses.
Eligibility for some ONA grants may be determined at the time of application or in some cases after completing and returning an SBA application.

The first step is to register with FEMA for assistance. To do so:
