NEMA, FEMA Holding Free Safe Room Workshops

LINCOLN, Nebraska – The Nebraska Emergency Management Agency and the Federal Emergency Management Agency have scheduled two free workshops in southeast Nebraska to provide residents with critical information as the area continues to rebuild following severe storms this past spring and summer.

The workshops, both of which will be held on Wednesday, October 15, will take place as follows:

2:00 p.m. – 4:00 p.m.

Seward Memorial Library

233 South 5th Street

Seward, NE

6:00 p.m. – 8:00 p.m.

York County 4-H Building

2400 N. Nebraska Avenue

York, NE

During each workshop, a FEMA safe room expert will give a presentation to explain what safe rooms are, how they are built, and how they can protect residents from future storms.

In addition to the safe room presentation, FEMA will provide free publications on safe rooms and other mitigation measures to protect your family, home and business from future disasters.

Anyone interested in learning about safe rooms and other mitigation topics is invited to attend either workshop. No pre-registration is required.
